Using the data obtained in [1] it is aimed rst to enrich the data and then to determine the best amounts of growth directions and loads that make the hardness of $\beta$-Sn single crystals maximum by using modern optimization techniques.