ABSTRACT:

Since Humankind has unconsciously exploited the nature for his aim from beginning up to now, bad cultural landscapes have appeared with inharmonious in the nature. But nowadays, people who aware of this anxious denaturalize, have started to plan and put into practice the necessary applications to shape the harmonious with ecological process of the nature for their physical and psychological needs. In this context, Landscape Architecture has been one of the important disciplines, protecting the human together with its environment, cultural and physical sources, combining the science, arts, engineering and technology.