In today’s global economy which firms increasingly go multinational; companies have to use new marketing, new management and new production models, also have to specialize on a particular subject. Specialization requirement led the outsourcing preferred intensely by firms. Firms identify their specialization areas, that is their core competences, and transfer all activities other than their core competencies specialized firms. Outsourcing the supply chain activities which is an important factor to take and obtain the competitive advantage is gaining popularity nowadays. At this point, the goal of this study is make a due diligence of transferring rate of basic supply chain activities and if the necessary equipment for supply chain activities are exist in the firms in textile industry. The importance given by the firms and keeping costs of this activities are examined in this study.