Analyzing the results of research, gas pains that is seen in the majority of babies is known as infantile colic among the people. When examined the treatment model used by mothers to troubleshoot gas pains, these models are behavioral therapy, medication and natural treatment models. In this study it is planned to produce textile based foot pad which apple oil extract is transferred on to eliminate pain in infants. Disposable foot pads will be used for troubleshooting babies gas pains can be considered as a choose for practical and alternative method.