Abstract

Any dispute arising in private law relations is solved by the states jurisdiction or an arbitrator. Parties can also apply to alternative dispute resolution which has non-judicial nature outside of these two pathways. For this purpose, Mediation Act in Law Disputes (MA) and other relevant regulations were made also in Turkey. In this article Mediation Act and other relevant regulations adopted in Turkey will be discussed in comparison. It will be made compare with the mediation arrangements of the some countries, in particular the UK, Austria, Germany and China have commercial and private law relations with Turkey. In the conclusion some recommendations and assessment will be made.
