Costumer needs have changed recently and it is desired that, according to its using target, each material has to be different property. Flame retardant materials have been increasingly demanded in the field of military, aviation, and space fields. Although it is very high demand to flame retardant materials, very expensive chemical prices restrict their usage. In our offered project, Co, PET, Co/PET blend fabrics are treated with ionic liquids.