In this study, were investigated men with social adaptive and behavior problems in reducing problem behavior the impact of football of team sports children living in orphanages. In addition, which was to determine the effect children can express their feelings them to football.

Designated for the purpose, controlled study was conducted in the range of 9-11 years, Aydin Provincial Directorate of Social Services and Child Protection Agency in the dormitory of the 15 remaining children ’s experiment, 14 percent with a total of 29 children.

Children in the experimental group work has been done than sixteen (16) weeks, week three (3) day 1 (one) hour football of team sports. Applications will be made days Monday, Wednesday and Friday, respectively. As the content; warm-ups, exercises and functional football program was implemented consisting of educational games section.

The control group consisted of children has not been built sixteen (16) weeks in any physical activity or sports activity.

Get to the end of the study to assess the impact of research on all the children staying abroad, who are responsible for children in their mothers social cohesion and behavior scales were administered as pre-test and post-test.

The analysis results of this test were performed with the SPSS 16 program. The average difference between the groups as to the comparison of arguments in non-sequential Mann-Whitney U test to Nan-Par, to the comparison of intra-group mean difference in the Wilcoxon test were examined Nan Par.

As a result, were found (* p <0.05) and at the level of significance ( p <0.01) to be significant at the level of significance one of the team sports of football, joining in reducing behavior problems with social Adaptive and behavior problems children in living in orphanages.

Keywords: Social Cohesion, Sports, Football, Behavior Problem