After the determination of production and consumption of oil in world and Turkey where oil has an important position in our country’s total import, an empirical study was made by considering the progressions of oil prices. The increasing effect of world oil price developments on the current account deficit has been determined with the help of error correction model.