Isolation is one of the important issues in the practice of infection control. For that reason isolation symbols are used in the hospitals to standardize practice and language. Isolation symbols, patient and employee safety and health, without disturbing the patient's scope, to inform the staff and the symbols used for descriptive precautionary measures. This is a descriptive study, assistant university hospital doctors, nurses, and administrative staff as employees routinely used to identify the symbols of isolation in hospital operation and use of the information was carried out to create awareness.