In Turkey, we have lots of different local political actors. For example; mukhtar, provincial council, municipal council, non-governmental organizations, independent political will, local political party representatives etc. But this paper is about provincial council which has critical importance for local democracy and participation. In this context at the first we mentioned provincial councils history and importance of local democracy and participation. After that we discussed their future and last changes. When we did that, we used the previous study which Gül, Kiriş and Negiz do on Isparta Provincial Council for measure of quality of this council in 2009 and we try to improve this study. So, we applied similar survey in 2014 after the local election and made comparison the quality of this two different year council.
