Idadi School of Isparta
Educational activities have an important place through Modernization Movements in every field carried out by the Otoman State in the 19th century. In this period, education is transferred from medrese to mektep. This understanding also prevails in respect of structure. Idadi of Isparta is the output of the architectural reflection of modernization perception in the Otoman education. This presentation gives the architectural stages the Idadi has experienced from the first building to the present day by using documents. In during the period, the building’s social effects are given place.