In this study, the process of family life cycle was considered and the process of family life cycle specific to Turkish society was tried to be determined. The family life cycle is a long-running process that begins with the engagement period, the process of preparation for marriage, and ends with the death of both spouses. For spouses starting to undertake new roles with the beginning of this process, each new cycle requires learning and adapting different roles and behavior patterns. In this sense, the spouses who overtake the role of husband and wife with the beginning of marriage assume the role of motherfather together with the birth of the child, the role of the educator as the child begins to read, the role of psychologist when the child reaches adolescence and the role of grandfather-grandmother when they have grandchild. They perform the role that they assume in any cycle until they die. Keywords Family, Family Life Cycle, Family Roles.
