ABSTRACT

In the time of Atatürk, the characteristics of his era can be seen in relationships between Turkey and Iraq. Fluctuated graphic shows the nature of cultural, economical, historical, military and geographical relationships among countries as it happened at the most of world problems. As we examine the relationships between Iraq and Turkey, we would try to evaluate the political developments in Iraq and Turkey with the mutual and different aspects within the limit of this study.

Turkish-Iraqi relationships in the Atatürk era can be divided in three periods with different and mutual aspects. Firstly, from the end of the First World War (1918) to the establishing of mandate government, secondly from the Mandate to the gaining independence of Iraq dated 1932, thirdly, from Turkey and Iraq to the League of Nations to death of Atatürk in 1938.
